

A New British Car Club Joins The British Car Council

A new British Car Club has been established recently with a specific focus on British marque automobiles and the operation of a Toy Drive event (previously conducted under the BCCI banner). The new club is called the Toy Drive Group. Toy Drive Group is made up of several people, organized for a joint purpose, to create a Community Association to foster enthusiasm for British car ownership, and provide periodic gatherings and annual events geared towards the display of British cars and the support of charitable organizations. Currently with 12 members in the Milton/Waterloo (Ontario) region, the all-volunteer group organize and operate an annual Toy Drive event, for the display of British marque automobiles, along with the collection of donations (toys and monies) for the local Salvation Army branch.

[September 2017]